Gabby

personality about Gabby

Personal information:
Aliases: Gab, Gabby, Gibe
Hobbies: sports, listening to music, studying
Characteristics: she believes in healthy living
Horses: She has a mountain, apple body, she loves all kinds of sports
Skills: she gets best marks, and is sometimes unsure when making important decisions
Easy to recognize: sporty look, hair in a ponytail
Team profession: her dog, she would like to become a dress artist and qualify for the Olympics
Her favourite: yellow blue, yellow girl, tennis, her dog
Other things: roller skating, handball, tennis, soccer, winter

Let's go outdoors!
 Whenever possible, I spend the majority of my free time outdoors. I usually walk to the nearby forest or park. Not only do I love feeling fresh, but the fresh air and the views fit me with lots of energy. I really enjoy jogging by a nice bridge, river or lake.
 According to researchers, your mind freshens up after only five minutes of walking. So it's good to spend some time outdoors!

If you do not feel like walking, you can take a bicycle, rollerblade or skateboard ride instead. The point is not to stay inside the four walls - go outside!

Since I regularly take my dog, Caramel, for a walk, we often play in the nearby park, or even in woods.

On two wheels
 When the weather is nice, we jump on our bikes, and visit some great nearby sites and provincial natural areas. Even Lily, who does not like sports that much, likes to ride her bike. We always have a good laugh, because she has an ancient "made of transport" she got from her grandmother, and it often needs to be repaired. We are happy to help her out.

Saddle up!

My equipment: helmet, riding jacket, shirt, long trousers (jodhpurs) and boots.

My horse's equipment: furage, reins, saddle and boots.

As riding competitions, riders wear an elegant dressage hat instead of a helmet, and a cowboy hat at western riding shows.

Why is it worth learning how to ride a horse?
 Not only seeing a horse fills you with pleasure, but also horsemanship riding is a healthy sport, because it works almost all the muscles of the body, while developing your sense of balance and coordination. Did you know that riding is also beneficial to your spiritual well-being and helps you feel good about yourself?

There are many, both on regular or circus that you can give your horse after a good ride or horsemanship training session, names also have horse-dancers for a treat.

Braided mane
 Even though my horse is just as beautiful as the others, I would easily recognize mine from a hundred horses. Why? Because I added special, one-of-a-kind braids and ornaments to the mane of my horse. Of course, I thoroughly brushed his mane beforehand, which he was really happy about!

The well-deserved prize
 At riding competitions, the winning rider is awarded a shiny cup, while the horse also receives a special accolade. A horse-shaped wreath studded with flowers is hung on its neck, and a raffish, colourful prize ribbon is tied to the reins. It is a lovely sight, and the horse and rider are tremendously proud of their achievement.

Competitions
 When you become an experienced rider as I am, you can enter various competitions where the judges will score speed, jumping, fitness and the way rider and horse move together.

This is how horses move...
 ...When walking the horse lifts its legs one after the other, in a specific order, slowly and calmly.
 ...When trotting the horse moves its legs in unison in diagonal pairs.
 ...When galloping after striking the ground, all four legs are off the ground.
 At the last competition, Gabby jumped over the obstacle with amazing grace. She ended up winning the competition.

FAR, FAR AWAY

This unusual storybook shows the adventurous life, good and bad habits, and the most characteristic qualities of giants, elves, dragons and fairies, in other words the classic fairy tale heroes. Amusing descriptions and short stories are complemented by fun brain-teasers that stimulate the imagination. All that is usually needed to answer the questions is fantasy, and every reasoned answer is right. This is the point of the book – to encourage free, creative thinking in children.

IN THE ZOO

Why don't the lions escape from the zoo? Why does the boa need to be measured/weighed? When do bats go to sleep? What time do the gardeners start work in the zoo? How is a giraffe transported? This book answers countless questions and shows the enthralling world of the modern zoo through eye-catching illustrations. Young readers can learn about the daily routine and the living spaces of the zoo animals, as well as the work of the keepers. Brief descriptions of species help build children's knowledge of natural science.

THE WORLD THROUGH THE EYES OF CHILDREN

"Hi, I'm Pete. I live in Alaska and I'm an Eskimo. I bet you think I live in an igloo, but I don't. Our house is built of wood and stone. But grandpa has shown me lots of times how to cut blocks of frozen snow and stack them on top of each other in a circle. We use these shelters made out of ice when we go fishing."

Interesting information about countries, lands, peoples and customs – as seen through the eyes of the children who live there.

The use of vehicles in our everyday lives and work is a natural experience for us, however, we have little knowledge about their construction and operating principles. This publication helps in understanding them with spectacular illustrations and detailed information. The illustrated atlas of vehicles explains land, sea and air transport vehicles as well as those capable of space travel on large-size coloured cutaway diagrams with high detail.
