WILDLIFE SNAPSHOTS

ASIA AND AUSTRALIA

The individual volumes of the series present 18 animals that are most typical of a given continent, with one volume concentrating specifically on the prehistoric continents. The volumes are divided into three chapters based on the habitats of the species – that is, Forest residents, Open landers, and Water lovers. The concise and readerly texts are illustrated by both artistic graphics and humorous drawings. At the end of each volume, a comprehensible map depicts the species' spread on the continent.

HOW IT IS MADE?

More often than not, it's quite a challenge to answer apparently simple questions. Why does toothpaste have stripes? How does Play-Doh find its way to the box? How is chewing gum made? These are just a few of the questions kids tend to ask. This book is a collection of day to day items that children would like to know a little more about. Of course, the manufacturing processes are simplified with only as much detail as needed for children, all illustrated with colourful flowcharts to help parents answer a plethora of questions.
